Bugatti Centodieci, £9m

Back in 2024, CR7 added the most extravagant and expensive car to his collection.

The £9million Centodieci boasts an 8 litre W16 engine, with special models having 1600hp – some 100hp more than the Chiron and, overall, three times the price of that model.

It can do 0-62mph in just 2.4 seconds and reach a top speed of 236mph.

His Centodieci has been spotted in Saudi.

Ronaldo was recently seen in Riyadh behind the wheel of Range Rover's new SUV.

Bigger than the Evoque, but smaller than the Sport, it's the perfect family car for the forward.

It's electric, so it's good for the environment.

It's acceleration is quite slouchy though, measuring 0-62mph from 5.4 seconds.

Incredibly, it can reach speeds of 260 mph, and does 0-60 in just under 2.5 seconds.

As we said, he likes two of everything - and this was the second Bugatti he bought, although he denied buying a third - the Bugatti La Voiture Noire.

Bugatti Veyron, £1.7m

Made in 2011, it's the most celebrated model by the Italian car designer - and owned by footballers all over the world, not scared of the outlandish price.

It's cheaper than anything else he owns, and was bought in 2024 as a family car.

13 Showing that he doesn't have to always drive flashy cars, Ronaldo was seen in an affordable Chevrolet

McLaren Senna, £1m

A car made as a dedication to the legendary Brazilian racing driver Ayrton Senna, it would've set Ronaldo back around £1million - with only 500 models ever made.

So enamoured by its performance on Top Gear, former presenter Jeremy Clarkson said of the McLaren Senna it has 'rewritten the supercar rule book'.

Powered by a twin-turbo charged V8 engine that produces 800 horse power, it can hit 0-62 mph in just 2.8 seconds.
